Troops From Pass Towns Will Unite Forces for Ten Days Training Camp

Boy Scout troops from Michel, Coleman, Blairmore, Hillcrest and Bellevue will go into camp at Lee Lake from July 20 to 30. A meeting of committees of troops was held on Tuesday in J. E. Gillis' office at Blairmore, presided over by Mr. Westrup of Hillcrest, chairman of general committee.

The following were present: From Michel, Rev. Mr. McMorine, scoutmaster, and George Rossington, assistant scout master; from Coleman, Rev. A. S. Partington, president Coleman Scouts, Harold Turner and H. T. Halliwell; Blairmore, J. E. Gillis, K. C. J. E. Hills, S. M., G. Moffin, C. J. Tompkins, H. V. McDougall; Hillcrest, Albert Mark, S. M., Jack Norton; from Bellevue, Mr. McIntyre, J. E. Radford, S. M.

Permission has been granted by Mrs. Parker for the use of the beautiful campsite at Lee Lake, and the advance party will proceed there on July 18 and prepare the camp. Tents will be rented from the militia department.

Sergeant Geo. Moffin will be the autocat in charge of the cook house, scouts being detailed each day to assist him, while the entire camp will be under the direction of Rev. Mr. McMorine, who was unanimously elected camp commandant. The troops from the various towns will drive by auto or truck to

Boxing Exhibition July 1

Frank Barringham, who is promoting the boxing exhibition in the opera house on July 1, states it should go down in sports history. Several good preliminaries promise a good show. The main bout of ten rounds will bring together Jimmy Burrell of Blairmore and Kid Hughes of Michel, both well known throughout the Pass. Hughes claims the junior welterweight title of Western Canada. Hughes defeated Mahone of Trail in the fourth round at Hillcrest in February by the K. O. route and Cyclone Russell ten rounds on points in March. Odds so far are in favor of Burrell in this end of the Pass, while the Michel fans are heavily backing their champ 2 to 1.

Bill Burrows, ex-chief, will referee; Dan McLellan of Coleman and Jack Watson of Hillcrest will act as judges.

ST. ALBAN'S CHURCH

Sun. June 28, fourth after Trinity—Sunday school at 9:30 a. m., holy communion 11 a. m. The bible class will be discontinued until after school holidays.

S. B. Ryan is blossoming forth as a disciple of Isaac Walton. On Sunday he fished four fine trout from Crow's Nest Lake. This beats the record of the editor of this paper, who has caught one in four years.

Burmis on July 20, first troop leaving Michel at 7 a. m., and on reaching Burmis, the Scouts will form into column and march the remaining three miles to the camp.

Coleman Homing Society

Sunday's flight was from Morrison, Montana. 287 miles by air-line. Birds were released at 5 a. m. Sunday, and the first of the 38 in the flight resched its loft at 12:30 noon, flying the distance at an average of nearly 865 miles per hour in 73 hours continuous flight.

A remarkable thing about the winning bird is that feathers in its wings, which were broken in a previous flight by mischievous and unsportsmanlike individuals firing at the pigeons, were spliced with needles by the owner. Such is the grit of a homing or carrier pigeon.

Polish Bishop Awarded $5,000 in Libel Action

S. G. Bannan, Barrister, of Blairmore, Acted for Plaintiff Joseph Foltynski

Some months ago there came, Coleman Bishop Joseph Foltynski, of the Polish church in Calgary. He endeavored to gather a number of his countrymen around his service, but very shortly after arrival malicious rumors were circulated with the purpose of discrediting him and scandalously libeling his character. Some of the statements, it was alleged, stated he was a robber and a murderer.

Paul Markiewicz, bishop of the Polish Catholic church, of Winnipeg, was the defendant, and the case was heard before Mr. Justice Ives in the supreme court at Lethbridge.

According to the evidence reported in the Lethbridge Herald, Bishop Markiewicz had been pursuing Bishop Foltynski through the mail with libellous missives to members of his congregation, where he happened to be, in places such as Brandon, Toronto and Hamilton, and finally at Blairmore, where he now is. The particular libel was contained in a letter addressed to one Badzioch, a member of Bishop Foltynski's flock at Coleman, asking him to read it at a meeting of the congregation.

Bishop Paul stopped at nothing in his accusations against Bishop Joseph, charging him with murder, immorality, robbery, impotence, etc. He apostrophized Bishop Joseph in the letter to Badzioch with the words: "You deserve to be purple and think that these clothes and perishable shrine will cover your stupidity, immorality and unlimited fraud." He charged him with being a "second-rate, roaming across the country robbing people," "a degenerated vagabond." He accused him of de-

Don't Be Critical

There are two kinds of criticism,—one that nowadays we refer to as "constructive" criticism, and the other that in common parlance we term "destructive" criticism. To be exact, the word criticism should not be used in connection with the latter.

Criticism is a fine old English word which in its pure significance, so a writer has pointed out, implies carefully weighing and balancing; fine, authoritative judgment. Needless to say the heading over this article is not in reference to such true form of criticism.

In modern usage the word has been debased, and divorced from its true meaning. Today its implication is not to take the measure of something or someone, but rather to point out, dwell upon, magnify the defects of something or someone. The tendency is not to balance, but to distort, to become cynical, to carry out, to indulge in wholesale fault-finding, to seek to destroy what is rather than to work for betterment. It is in this sense we say: Don't be critical.

In so many respects people are the product of their environment that it takes an unusually strong person to stand erect and breast the onrushing tide of current opinion. When times are prosperous, business booming, stocks and bonds mounting ever higher, when nine out of every ten people are optimists, many of them merely because it is the fashion to be so, they become extremely critical of the person who advises caution. Such a person is characterized as a non-progressive, labelled a back number, when as a matter of fact he may be more truly progressive, more far-seeing, more of a real builder than those who deride him.

Reversing the picture, we find in these present days that the vast majority of people are pessimistic and because conditions are admittedly not good they are critical of and would destroy those very institutions under which they developed and enjoyed their former prosperity, and they now denounce those who again urge caution and a carefully weighing of all the facts before taking a leap in the dark; they are impatient with and critical of all those who advise sane, clear thinking and careful, well-thought-out action rather than wholesale destruction of that which has gone before.

Environment, too, has a great deal to do with our pet prejudices, and prejudice is the fruitful source of a very large percentage of harmful criticism. It is only the accident or circumstances of birth that makes a person one of the white race rather than a negro or an oriental. Many a staunch Protestant who criticizes, denounces and raves over everything appertaining to Roman Catholicism might just as easily be born a devout Roman Catholic and thus be the object of the criticism and scorn he now pours out on others, or he who now insists he belongs to the only true church might have been born one of those he now regards as a heretic, or even a heathen savage.

The circumstance of birth has placed some men on thrones, or in positions of luxury and wealth, while others have been born as slaves and into dire poverty. Each man may be doing his duty as he sees it, honestly and fearlessly, striving for individual, community and world betterment. But neither the one nor the other has the right to look condescendingly on his fellow man nor deride him. They may not agree upon what constitutes world betterment, and each has full liberty of action to strive for the attainment of that in which he believes or desires. Constructive teaching and action looking to the realization of desired ends is praiseworthy and should be indulged in, but narrow, bitter, illogical criticism, purely destructive in its nature and intent, is not only deplorable and to be condemned, but, in the final analysis, it is futile in results.

What this old world needs, probably more than anything else, is in its present stage of development, is a more universal acceptance of the meaning of the good old English word, "Co-operation." People need to read their thinking processes, their words written and spoken, their actions; they need to subdue their passions, curb their prejudices, look beyond their environment; in a word, in business, in government, in community life, in all our intimate social intercourse, there is imperative need for careful weighing and balancing, for fine, exact, authoritative judgment. Prejudice and selfishness require to give way to reasonableness, a willingness to recognize and study the other fellow's point of view.

That is, the world needs today, as it has always needed and always will need, the application of the Golden Rule, the spirit of co-operation, in the every day activities of life, be those activities great or small, vitally significant or relatively unimportant.

Postpone Trip Until Winter

Trans-Canada Auto Travellers Decide To Wait Until Muskies Freeze

The "Nova-Columbia," powerfully constructed auto, which has been attempting the first trans-Canada journey by the automobile route, will lay up at Fort William for the balance of the summer. Decision to have the hazardous trip until winter thaws harden the treacherous muskeg land in the Kenora Lake district has been arrived at by the drivers, Charles McKenzie and Gus McManus, because they cannot negotiate a mile a day under present conditions. The plotters of trans-Canada motor travel started out from Halifax last September, and have covered 2,000 miles of the 4,000-mile trek. It is estimated the trip will not be concluded before 1929, as all of next winter will be required to get through the thick muskeg and muskeg country.

The Mother of Seven Children Used It for Diarrhoea

Mrs. Ray Drinkwater, R.R. No. 2, Hagersville, Ont., writes:—"I am the mother of seven children, and in the summer of 1928, my 17 months old, was taken very sick with diarrhoea, and I thought she was going to die. My friend told me to get 7 miles to see what my sister had given her baby, and he came home with a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. I gave the child a few doses and she was soon well again. My other children also had diarrhoea at that time and I gave them 'Dr. Fowler's' with the same results."

Manitoba Visions

Huge Power Project

Development Of Dauphin River Power Would Be Great Benefit To Province

A likely means of balancing agricultural and industrial development in Manitoba was pictured by Premier Bracken in his address to the Young Men's Section of the Winnipeg Board of Trade, recently. "The feasibility of the Dauphin River as a power development scheme," Properly developed, the Dauphin River project would be the largest individual development in Manitoba, he said, and would increase the power resources of the province by probably 400,000 h.p. It would round out the whole power situation in Manitoba; assure all parts of the province of a supply of low-priced hydro power for many years; facilitate the development of industry in urban centres and of municipal services in the rural centres with the possibility of adding 50 per cent. to the industrial future of the southern part of Manitoba.

Amish Mennonites Ban Radios

Classify Them With Musical Instruments Sent By Devil

Bringing the extremely strict tenets of their creed up to date, the Amish Mennonite conference of Ontario, which concluded a three-day session at the Mapleview church, Witlesey Village, near Kitchener, Ontario, has decreed that radios must be banned from all Amish Mennonite homes, the sect classifying radios with musical instruments which have been barred since the sect was founded.

Musical instruments, along with many other modern luxuries and even some so-called conveniences, are banned from the homes of Amish Mennonites as being instruments of the devil designed to lead the faithful away from devout worship of the Almighty. Penalty for violation of the ban on radios in the home is excommunication from the church.

Would Cancel Certificates

One Hundred and Seventy Naturalization Certificates May Be Cancelled

Cancellation of 170 naturalization certificates which were obtained fraudulently has been recommended by Judge J. G. Wallace of Woodstock, Ont., who investigated many cases in Montreal and Toronto last April. The cabinet is considering the report at the present time but it is expected the recommendations will be followed. Consideration also is being given to the institution of criminal charges against those involved and to deporting them from the country.

Saskatchewan Boy Dies From Eating Wild Parsnip

Business As Usual

An insurance agent had outstayed his welcome in a merchant's office, and took no notice of the many broad hints that he was making himself a nuisance. At last his victim got him by the scarf of the neck and pitched him downstairs. The man got up, retrieved his hat, and turning to the man at the top of the stairs, he said calmly, "Joking apart, what about that insurance policy?"

The farmer is not unemployed. Just unpaid, that's all.

Seaport Taking Form

Men Are Working Day and Night At Churchill

Two thousand men, working day and night shifts, are employed at Churchill, terminus of the Hudson Bay Railway and Manitoba's new seaport, and the town is "sprouting a skyline," reports Hon. W. R. Clubb, Minister of Public Works, who returned from the northern port.

A seaport, equipped with all modern facilities, is taking form on the shores of the great natural harbor of Churchill, with the hundreds of men working on elevator and dock construction.

The steel fabric of the grain elevator, which will have a capacity of 2,500,000 bushels, stands out against the clear northern sky, said Mr. Clubb. Hundreds of men are busy building the dock where during the shipping seasons of future years ocean vessels will take on cargoes of Western Canadian grain and livestock of Old Country ports.

Mr. Clubb and Hon. Donald G. McKenzie, Minister of Mines and Natural Resources, inspected the future townsite where streets and lots will be surveyed and laid out this summer.

Eskimos Ride In Truck

First Automobile At Churchill Startles The Natives

Wary pedestrians who travelled north to Manitoba's new seaport at Churchill, to escape the ever-present automobile were startled recently to see ploughing through the heavy muddy roads of this settlement the first car north of 59.

The heavy two-ton truck is being used in freighting the supplies of the Roman Catholic church from the station to their various missions along the west coast of Hudson Bay.

Eskimos, northern trappers, and Indians gathered around the truck gazing with awe as it ploughed through the heavy roads. It was a considerable time before any of the Eskimos could be convinced it was safe to ride in the machine.

The young Indians and Eskimos who rode in the back of the machine were looks of rapt wonder as they jolted along the trail.

The family which possesses a piece of land and will work it so that it will produce the things they must have to sustain life, is vastly better off than the general run of population of the towns and cities, even though they may not be out of employment now. It has been a long, hard pull lately for the farmers but they are not without something with which to pull, as is the unhappy condition of the unemployed in the cities.

Important Office Abolished

Nova Scotia Government Does Away With Representative In London, England

Tuesday, June 30, will see the end of the longest record of official representation in London, England, that any part of the overseas Empire has known. In 1761—one hundred and seventy years ago—John Mauger was appointed agent-general in the Empire capital by the Nova Scotia Government. On June 30 Miss Jean Iris Howard will relinquish a post terminated by the present provincial administration. Henceforth Nova Scotia's affairs in Great Britain will be handled through the Canadian High Commissioner's office, according to announcement in the House of Assembly this year.

Economy was the motive which led to abolition of the office. The point of view of the Nova Scotia Government in abolishing the office is that the province's interests can be looked after adequately by the Canadian High Commissioner's staff, by the railways, insofar as immigration is concerned, and by the trade commissioners. The saving will be about $25,000 annually.

Cloud Of Insects

Visits Alaskan Island

Report From Wrangell States All Vegetation Was Destroyed

A despatch from Wrangell, Alaska, states that a cloud of insects which filled the skies to such density that they could be grasped in the air by the handful, visited and destroyed vegetation on Vank Island.

J. G. Smith, a fox farmer, said the insects were borne to the island by a southwest wind. He described them as about half an inch in length, with red legs and with a head and mouth resembling an ant.

They alight on the trees and shrubs, eating a single hole in each leaf, he added. Strawberry blossoms turned black later.

U. S. Government May Postpone Payment Of War Debts For A Year

Washington.—Herbert Hoover, the president of the United States, has moved for postponement of payment of international governmental debts for a year, beginning July next.

At 6:10 o'clock on the morning of Saturday afternoon, the president read to newspapermen a statement wherein the major points were these:

"The American Government proposes the postponement during one year of all payments of inter-governmental debts, reparations and relief debts, both principal and interest."

"Subject to confirmation by Congress, the American Government will postpone all payments upon the debts of foreign governments to the American Government payable during the fiscal year beginning July 1 next, conditional on a like postponement for one year of all payments on inter-governmental debts owing the important creditor powers."

The statement listed 21 leading senators and 18 congressmen as approving this course, and continued:

"The purpose of this action is to give the forthcoming year to the economic recovery of the world—the essence of this proposition is to give time to permit debtors to give time to permit their national governments to recover their national property. I am suggesting to the American people that they be wise creditors in their own interest, and good neighbors."

"I do not approve in any remote sense of the cancellation of the debts to the United States."

"This action has no bearing on the conference for limitation of land armaments to be held next February."

"We trust that by this evidence of our desire to assist we shall have contributed to the good-will so necessary to the solution of this major question."

Essentially the position now is this: Subject to the approval of Congress, which assemblies before the next international payments fall due on December 15, and subject to the approval of all nations concerned, on which point considerable doubt is manifest in well-informed circles, the machinery of international payments will cease to function for 12 months.

The American government takes the most momentous step in a decade because of the economic depression, because of the perilous political situation in Europe, particularly in Germany, and because of the exigencies of domestic politics.

Farm Credit Proposal Outlined By Beatty

Half Of Five Million Capital Of Company Now Subscribed

Ottawa, Ont.—Within a few weeks the organization of the Dominion Agricultural Credit Company will be completed, H. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, told the House of Commons committee on banking and commerce.

Designed to assist farmers in Western Canada in diversifying their operations, the company will go slowly and feel its way for the first few years. The idea, Mr. Beatty said, was derived from agricultural credit corporations of the United States which had functioned with success on similar lines in Minnesota and other states.

Up to the present about half of the $5,000,000 capital of the company has been subscribed and when the bill now before parliament to authorize banks, loan, trust and insurance companies to invest in the securities is passed, no time would be lost in getting the scheme under way.

Cattle Ships Needed

Not Enough Ships Available For Transport To Britain

London, England.—The question of providing shipping facilities for import of Canadian cattle to Great Britain came up in the House of Commons. A member said that in view of the fact that large numbers of cattle were held in Canada awaiting shipment because there were not enough ships available for transport the president of the Board of Trade should bring the matter to the notice of shipowners who controlled ships lying idle in British ports.

G. M. Gillett, secretary to the overseas trade department, replied he was informed shipowners were not satisfied that proposals in regard to the increased shipment of Canadian cattle were such as to justify them in incurring the considerable extra expense needed to fit ships for this special trade. He understood, however, that discussions were now taking place between representatives of the shipowners and the shippers on the subject.

Farmers Going North Are Making Mistake

Timberland Soil In Northern Saskatchewan Usually Bad

Saskatoon, Sask.—Farmers of the dried-out south country who are moving to timberland regions of the north are making a mistake. That is the opinion of Professor A. H. Joel, head of the soils department at the University of Saskatchewan.

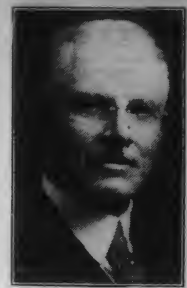

Professor Joel, in an address before a Kiwanis club luncheon meeting here recently, said: "I don't like to see flocks of people going north. Timberland soil is bad as a rule. If, however, they settle on black grassland soil in amongst the timber they may be alright."

Waiting Reply To Note On Waterways

Washington Looking For Developments When Canadian Minister Arrives

Washington.—The Ottawa government is expected shortly to reply to the United States note of last September regarding the attitude of the administration of Premier R. B. Bennett to the proposed St. Lawrence waterway enterprise. The impending arrival in Washington of Major W. D. Herridge, Canadian minister to Washington and brother-in-law of the premier, is being looked forward to by United States officials as presaging important developments.

DEPUTY MINISTER RETIRES

F. C. T. O'Hara, Deputy Minister of Trade and Commerce for Canada, who has retired at his own request on account of ill-health.

Better Times Ahead

Professor Swanson Looks For Greater Period Of Prosperity Than Ever

Saskatoon, Sask.—Commenting on the "better times are coming" interview with Roger W. Babson in New York, Professor W. W. Swanson, head of the department of economics at the University of Saskatchewan, said that "Babson was correct in his view that the world has ever known would follow the emergence from the present depression."

"There can be no real recovery of business until primary products, especially farm products, have reached higher values. Business as a whole will depend for its recovery fundamentally on international financial and commercial co-operation," he said.

"As far as the west is concerned only a return of higher price levels for wheat will start the process of business recovery. Wheat will tend to rise in price as the artificial surpluses are disposed of but the decline in the yield of wheat in the west this year will seriously retard recovery."

Soviets Buy Pedigreed Cattle From Britain

Secured Many At Bargain Prices Owing To Depression

London, England.—Soviet Russia has purchased 430 head of pedigree Shorthorn and Hereford cattle from British herds. All the Shorthorns, about 230 head, were supplied from Scotland.

The shipment is described as the largest single consignment of purebred stock ever sent from this country, and owing to the depression in the market the Russians are said to have secured many of the Scottish Shorthorns on bargain terms. The Soviet will, of course, use the stock for breeding purposes.

Jacques, Victoria, B.C., pensioned in 1930 from the Lord Strathcona's Horse, after 25 years' service, has been awarded the Meritorious Service Medal, the most coveted award available to pensioners on the permanent force of Canada. The service medal is limited to 75 persons in the Dominion.

Makes Record Flight

Non-Stop Trip From Vancouver To Lower California Under Eight Hours

Agua Caliente, Lower California.—James Goodwin Hall, New York aviator, set his trim monoplane down here at 4:13.01 p.m. after completing a non-stop, three-day flight from Vancouver, B.C., in seven hours 48 minutes 31 seconds.

Hall took off from the Sea Island airport at Vancouver at 8:24 o'clock. The take-off was officially timed by Blake M. Wilson, president, and P. Blondel, secretary, of the Aero Club of B.C., and G. S. Jones-Evans, superintendent at the airport.

The plane left the half mile runway at Sea Island in 23 seconds, lifting a heavy load of gas without difficulty. The craft, a Lockheed Altair with retractable undercarriage, is capable of a speed of nearly 200 miles an hour.

Epidemic In Newfoundland

Five Hundred Cases Of Beri Beri Disease Have Been Reported

St. John's, Newfoundland.—As a result of a medical investigation of the south coast, especially in the vicinity of Placentia Bay, there has been revealed that a disease called beri beri, which is similar to dropsy, is extremely prevalent among the inhabitants, an estimate of more than 500 cases having been made.

Dr. Modell, local health doctor, attributed the disease largely to the lack of vegetables in the diet. Following the tidal wave of last year the people have been mainly occupied with reconstruction work and have neglected cultivation of vegetable foods. A bulletin giving instructions regarding dieting is being issued, while the worst cases have been brought to this city for electrical treatment.

Fewer Jobs In East

Vancouver, B.C.—Before a meeting of the Vancouver and West Westminster Trades and Labor Council, Hon. G. D. Robertson, Dominion Minister of Labor, said that while the unemployment problem was serious in Canada, there was far less stress in the eastern part of the country than in the west.

Government Sustained By Majority Of Thirty In Vote On Budget

Ottawa, Ont.—By a majority of 30, the budget passed the House of Commons, bringing to an end two weeks of debate. An amendment and a sub-amendment were introduced from Liberal and U.F.A. ranks respectively. A crowded House approved the government proposals by a vote of 102 to 72. Previously the U.F.A. sub-amendment had been negative by a huge majority of 150, the vote standing: for, 15; against, 165.

The amendment had been defeated by 39, 70 members voting for it to 109.

Crowded galleries witnessed the three divisions. A good natured House indulged in songs, laughter and badinage while the somewhat slow process of registering each member's vote was gone through. When the final vote was announced

Calgary, Alberta.—Damage in the flood-torn districts around Drumheller and in the farming district of Rockyford, was placed alone at $250,000, while in the farming districts of Rockyford and Carbon districts, where several bridges were wiped away and railway beds washed out, approximately $100,000 damage was caused.

With R. S. Peterson, of East Coulee, claiming the car found on the banks of the Michichi Creek, and Charles Katona, of Calgary, recovering in Rockyford hospital, the death toll of the floods is definitely placed at four. Katona was injured in the freight train wreck near Rockyford which claimed one life. Three others were drowned.

One hundred of the homeless in Wayne are laboring in mud and water, trying to re-establish their homes. The hundred others are being provided with food and clothing in public buildings until the water recedes sufficiently to allow them to repair their homes.

Wayne houses were filled with mud, furniture and bedding scattered over the countryside and many houses shifted from their foundations in the mining town.

The water situation at Wayne is causing alarm as the wells have all been contaminated, many caving in and being filled with silt. The sanitary inspector from Edmonton is in Wayne helping the provincial police in effecting repairs. Police aided Red Cross workers in distributing water, food and clothing.

Thirteen bridges over the Michichi and Rosebud Creeks were washed out, while several more over Serviceberry Creek and in the Carbon area were wrecked.

Bridge gangs are at work, while both Canadian Pacific and Canadian National railways have rushed section gangs to ballast rails and effect necessary repairs.

May Help Wheat Sales

Ottawa, Ont.—The advance in the percentage of foreign wheat to be permitted in flour in France should increase Canada's wheat sales to that country, said Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce. Earlier this year only 10 per cent of French wheat was permitted in French flour. This was subsequently increased to 25 per cent, and now to 30 per cent.

Declares Canada Is At The Dawn Of A New Era Of Greatness

Vancouver, B.C.—Canada at the dawn of a new era, of greatness among the greatest commercial nations of the world, is the vision outlined by J. H. Woods, of Calgary, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, who was a guest at luncheon of the council of the Vancouver Board of Trade.

Through courage, energy and integrity is this vision to be realized, he said. Even as the forewords of depression were in evidence, though ignored before the present crisis, so are the signs of a greater prosperity to be seen at present, he added.

"The greatest asset this country possesses is the ten millions of sturdy souls by whom it is inhabited," said Mr. Woods, "and in the quality of these souls rests the future of the land. Therefore, it is for you and me, as individuals, to see not only that we live lives of commercial and financial honesty and honor, but that we may attain in the highest measure the principles of courage and hardihood and cheerfulness by which our forefathers laid the foundations of our state."

Mobilization of the business brains of Canada to solve the problems consequent upon depressed times, particularly unemployment, is being effected by the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Woods intimated later in the course of an interview.

"I do not know of any better means of studying this problem, and better chance to get a comprehensive cross-section of the opinion of the whole country, than will be afforded at the annual conference of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce at Regina in September," he said.

Mr. Woods explained how the executive of the organization has chosen appropriate groups of men for certain problems. Boards of trade at export centres will be asked to bring considered recommendations for the furtherance of foreign trade; cities of the wheat belt will be asked to come with conclusions on agriculture.

"The government is proceeding to get information on the unemployment problem," continued Mr. Woods. "We are proceeding to get information, too. What the government learns, we hope, will be of our disposal, and the experience of our country-wide members will be at the disposal of the government."

"The very presence of men from all over Canada at this conference is in itself an opportunity to send them back to their different provinces with a common objective."

"The Canadian Chamber of Commerce is not going to degenerate into a body for the passing of pious resolutions. We seek to do practical things. I believe that, outside of the work of the government, our organized trips to the West Indies, to Great Britain, to the Orient, to South America, are the most potent factors in the development of Canada's foreign trade."

In recognition of his sportsmanship, Canadian rowing enthusiasts have presented a canoe to Jack Beresford, Jr., who was stimulated in the Diamond Sculls last year when he waited until Joe Wright, Jr., had cleared a crab hook, in turn was defeated by Jack Guent, winner of the famed trophy. The picture shows the English sculler and two companions having a try-out on the Thames at Putney. ### NOTES AND COMMENTS

Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, leader of the opposition in the Federal House, stated that the unemployment situation throughout Canada is becoming so serious that unless the government does something about it, the situation will get beyond the ability of the government to cope with.

The workman becomes properly fed up with all the talk that goes on in the House of Commons. Talk, talk, talk for political purposes and no serious effort or suggestions made to meet the difficulty justifies the opinion that much of the talk at Ottawa is just for the gallery, and to h... with the public interests. Talk of a Canadian flag by C. R. McIntosh, silver currency by Mr. Coote and others, and lengthy debates on what appears to the man on the street to be killing time so that members may have a pretence for just claim to their sessional indemnity of $4,000, causes one to remark—"BUNK!"

Work is what hundreds of thousands want. Every effort of the government should be bent towards providing for it. The opposition's talk certainly does not contain anything of helpfulness, despite Mr. King uttering thousands of words in four hours and keeping Hansard reporters engaged on a useless task. At least half the time spent at Ottawa appears to be spent in futile talk at the expense of the whole country.

Progress is principally the result of individual effort and leadership. Unconsciously the vast majority are led. They would vigorously deny it if bluntly told so, yet the truth is evident if you just look around. It is the leaders in the scientific, industrial, religious or other fields of the world's work who make for the world's progress. The rest follow, very much in the same manner as sheep. As an instance, just see how many "try to keep up with the Jones!" It reminds one of the game played by children of "Follow the leader."

A community improves and progresses according to the aspirations and ambition of those who compose it. A shining example of this is seen in many western cities and towns, and very little searching beneath the surface will reveal that progress is due to combined effort of individuals who desire to make their town a better place for having lived in it. To do this interest must be taken in many avenues outside of one's business. Seek ye first the improvement, socially and morally, of your own community; and many things will be added. Above all, cultivate vision and look beyond the narrow confines of your immediate interests.

Every town in the mountains cannot be a Banff, Jasper Park or as showy as the other national parks, but great improvements could be made in presenting a pleasing atmosphere to the tourist and visitors who pass through. If the aspect is pleasing, they will tarry awhile, and the Crows Nest Pass towns, particularly Coleman, might benefit from the tourist business if a co-operative effort were made through the Board of Trade to make the lake a worth-while stopping place. Too many suffer from an inferiority complex and a fear of initiative effort, and they act as a ball and chain on those who strive for advancement.

An effort is being made to regulate store hours by by-law. It is the proper thing to do. It is stated that stores will remain open till 5.30 p.m. This will not inflict any hardship on storekeepers or their employees. Stores do not average 48 hours per week, and there is the inconvenience of stores closing at noon each day, which causes many a cuss word. To serve the public and to secure as near as possible 100 per cent. of the local business, storekeepers must take these things into consideration, otherwise they have no cause to grumble if business drifts to other places and the mail order houses.

The Boy Scout movement is a splendid antidote to the propaganda being carried on secretly among young people to instill Soviet ideals into their minds. It should receive the support and encouragement of people who believe in those ideals which have been so great a factor in building the British Empire. There are many who would tear down and substitute other methods which we know very little of, and this work is being carried on through boys and girls. There is urgent need for people to realize the situation and to combat it as effectively as possible.

McGillivray Relief Fund Committee Meeting

A meeting of the McGillivray disaster relief fund committee was held in the council chamber on Friday to appoint a chairman in place of W. J. Burns, who has left to reside in Edmonton. He acted as chairman since the creation of the fund shortly after the disaster in November 1926. J. H. Boulton was appointed to act for the balance of the time that the fund will exist.

Contributions to the fund amounted to $10,191.85, which was distributed among seven widows, one old couple and nine children at its inception on a monthly basis of $20 to each widow, $5 to each child and $20 to the old couple. In addition $100 was set aside to help take care of the expense of each funeral. There are now four widows and five children receiving aid which amounts to $110 each month.

There is a credit balance in the bank—$1011.35, less $85 outstanding, which will carry the fund for another eight months.

Those killed in the disaster were W. White, R. Fairfull, D. Meek, A. Leitch, G. Ukrainitz, M. Yurek, G. Johnston, Tom Young, A. Morris, W. Pytik—D.G.

Aim Of Marketing Committee To See That Producers Obtain More Of Value Consumers Pay

Directing its attention to the marketing of farm products, the House of Commons committee on agriculture heard Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture, outline his suggestions as to how the committee should proceed. He urged that the attention of the committee should be first devoted to the marketing of dairy, bacon and poultry products, as these could be disposed of more expeditiously than the other elements involved in the problem. Later the committee could take up questions concerned with wheat and livestock.

The first aim of the committee is to see if we can make it possible for the producers to get more of the value which the consumer pays at the present time," he said.

"I want the committee to feel free to attack these problems of marketing without prejudice," said the minister, "and I think it should hear representatives of the private, co-operative and produce interests, that it should meet from time to time and discuss the best means of marketing so as to avoid as far as possible the practice of private interests buying commodities at bottom prices and holding them for higher values without the producers getting the best value out of them."

What was needed was more education for the producer as to what should be produced and at what time it should be marketed, he said.

"We feel we should get the lowest freight rates from the steamship companies, but we cannot expect these companies to put their vessels at our disposal only for certain months. If we want cattle carried at the cheapest rate our supplies must be so distributed as to keep up a regular flow of cattle for export," Mr. Weir said. "Agricultural colleges should pay more attention to marketing," the minister proceeded. "Education is the work of the provinces, yet we could add to that by bringing one or two men at federal expense and sending them through our agricultural colleges to give lectures on this subject."

The spread between what the farmer receives for his eggs and what the consumer pays occupied the attention of the House of Commons committee on agriculture.

W. A. Brown, chief of the poultry division of the Department of Agriculture, addressed the committee on the operations of his branch. He analyzed costs to show that the farmer ordinarily receives about 50 per cent. of the consumer's price, the remainder going on freight, grading, wholesalers' and retailers' profits.

Another Scientific Discovery

Process To Prevent Fermentation Of Frozen Fruits and Vegetables

Discovery of a process to prevent fermentation of fruits and vegetables frozen in storage, has been announced by the British department of scientific and industrial research. It has been found that if vegetables are boiled or partially cooked before they are frozen their color and flavor will be preserved unimpaired. Boiling, it has been found, destroys the enzymes completely and permanently, leaving the vegetables in such a condition that they may be safely frozen and stored in suitable containers, either under liquid covering or exposed to the air.

Roses Bring High Price

Queen Mary sent a bouquet of roses to Christie's auction rooms for auction, the proceeds to go to the Alexandra Day Fund. The first bloom auctioned brought $575. The second one brought $520, and the one following reaped a succession of $250 and $125 offers.

On the Road To Mandalay

Pacific Coast Salmon Finds Ready Market In Distant Climes

"On the road to Mandalay" and east of Buz, also in London, Paris, Berlin, and other famous centers, canned and frozen salmon from British Columbia was successfully marketed in 1930.

All varieties of Pacific salmon were included in the export shipments, but it was found that some markets, such as Paris and Berlin, apparently preferred the frozen salmon cohoes and the steelhead variety. Most of the shipments were made from Victoria and were sent to the distant markets via transportation systems equipped with cold storage facilities.

For the most part the consignments were in the nature of test shipments, but the company carrying on the business reported gratifying success. It is expected that this year the field of shipment will be extended.

Our Forest Production

Total Value For Last Year Is Estimated At $219,376,129

Canada's total forest production for the year 1929, as estimated by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, involved the cutting of 3,080,614,617 cubic feet of standing timber and the resulting forest products were valued at $219,376,129, an increase of 3.1 per cent. over the estimated value for the previous year. Of the total cut, 90.5 per cent. was retained for use in Canada and 9.5 per cent. was exported in more or less unmanufactured form. The forest products in order of commercial importance were logs and bolts valued at over $78,000,000, pulpwood at over $76,000,000, and firewood at over $41,000,000. Hewn railway ties, poles, and square timber had an aggregate value of over $16,000,000, and constituted the most important of the remaining items.

Artificial Fertilizers

300 Tons Of Fertilizer From Trail Plant Being Used In Sugar Beet Area of Southern Alberta

Three hundred tons of artificial fertilizers have been used in the sugar beet area of southern Alberta this season, and correspondingly large amounts are being utilized in growing other crops in other sections of the Prairie Provinces, according to Dr. E. Neidig, director of agriculture for the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company at Trail. Two cars of fertilizer, which is being manufactured as a by-product of smelting operations at the Trail plant, were shipped to the Orient early in the year, said Dr. Neidig, and tests of its efficiency in increasing crop production are being carried on in every province from British Columbia to Ontario.

Saskatchewan Poultry Pool

Amount Of Business Transacted Shows A Large Increase This Year

Bird business is being done by the Saskatchewan Poultry Pool this year, showing a marked increase over that of last year. Reports presented at the recent directors' meeting showed that from March 1st to May 2nd, the pool handled a total of 117 carloads of eggs and some of the larger branches, at the peak, towards the end of the period, were handling four carloads weekly. "The increase in volume is general all over the province," says the report, "indicating that Saskatchewan as a whole is producing more of the product than ever before."

Makes Careful Driver

Deafness Is Not A Handicap In Automobile Driving

Deafness is not a handicap but in cases a positive assistance in automobile driving. Dr. Roy H. Gilpatrick of Boston, told the American Federation of the "Hard of Hearing" at Chicago. "The deaf or hard of hearing driver is a careful driver, mindful of his defect and making his eyes the work of his ears," he said. Modern traffic he said, is largely controlled by lights and visible signals rather than by sounds, for extraneous noise prevents audible signals from being accurately heard.

Planning Another Skyscraper

Madrid, one of the few European cities to have a skyscraper, plans to build another one. A corporation was recently formed to erect a big theatre and office building. It would be 15 stories high, or two stories higher than the National Telephone Company's building.

Good Idea But Unattainable

Would Be Complete Cancellation Of Book-Publishing For Five Years

The perfect "Five-Year Plan for Literature" would call for a complete cessation of book-publishing for that period. Think of it! Five years of freedom from symposiums on what ails us; from books about hard-boiled guys and their "janes"; from books about Russia; from 300,000-word translations from the German; from epics of the soil; from third-rate biographies compiled from second-hand sources; from novels called the something or other "janes"; from books on the psychology of what have you. Five years in which to return to those books which we all have been meaning to read—five years in which to develop that some rather good things found their way into print before May, 1931. Five years of freedom from saying: "I guess I'll have to read it," and from listening to literary conversation consisting of: "Have you read 'Yes, It's a swell'?" or "Yes, I think it's lousy." But all this, alas, is an unattainable idea.—New York Times.

A Healthy Year

Canadians Were Healthy If Not Wealthy In 1930

We're been healthy, if not wealthy during the year 1930. Dr. R. Vance Ward points out in the current issue of the Canadian Public Health Journal.

"As the vital statistics of various groups and communities for the year 1930 are completed, we are faced with an apparent contradiction of one of the cardinal principles of Industrial Hygiene," he says. "For years we have taught that high wages with their associated high standards of living have brought decreased mortality and morbidity, and that, conversely, low wages and unemployment have, whenever they have prevailed, carried in their train unfavorable health conditions. Yet everything points to the fact that 1930, a year of industrial depression, widespread unemployment and distress, has been the healthiest that the North American continent has yet seen."

Indians Are Great Swappers

Trade Ponies For Automobiles And A Island For Trunkets

Stony Indians on the Morley Reserve in Canada recently swapped eighty ponies for forty second-hand automobiles, garage men reporting a substantial profit in the subsequent sale of the ponies. Interesting though this incident is, it is not to be compared with the trade between Indians and white men in which the former gave up the Island of Manhattan for beads and trinkets valued at approximately $24.

Low Wages and Depression

An opinion that the present business depression is due primarily to wages being too low was expressed at Ottawa by A. R. Mosher, president of the All-Canadian Congress of Labor. He was commenting on an address Sir Joseph Flavelle delivered before the Canadian Credit Men's Association and in which he suggested a re-adjustment of wages was necessary for the re-establishment of industry.

Vicious Operations Of Reparations And War Debts Delaying Economic Recovery

Establish Packing Plant

Saskatchewan Cattle For British Co-Operative Societies

Saskatchewan farmers are turning their attention more to the production of cattle for the British market. The Saskatchewan Co-Operative Livestock Producers, Ltd., is reported to have an agreement with British Co-Operative Societies for the shipment of live cattle and it is understood that negotiations are under way to supply these societies also with chilled and frozen products. The Saskatchewan company has purchased a building in Saskatoon and will immediately establish a packing plant. Modern machinery will be installed and will include a meat-processing plant and a chilling and refrigerating system. It is expected that the plant will be in operation within two months.

This is the first co-operative plant of the kind established by a farmers' organization in the Province of Saskatchewan. In addition to the export market which it is hoped to build up the plant will compete for local business. The location has been selected with a view to utilizing the new Hudson Bay route to Europe via the port of Churchill. First shipments are expected to go forward about the first of September.

Results Of Alberta 100-Day Winter Trap Nest Tests Are Announced

The records of the Alberta 100-day winter trap nest test for the year 1930-31 have all been checked and the official certificates issued. The three highest pens are those of Mrs. Ed. Kehoe, Camrose; F. J. Detsman, Big Valley; and George Zinger, Stannmore. The flock of Mrs. Kehoe, who is a director of the Alberta poultry pool, came first with 80 per cent. of her Rhode Island Reds qualifying for certificates. Out of 65 birds entered, 28 said 70 or more eggs during the 100 days, and 24 laid over 50. Only seven birds failed owing to low egg weights.

Valuable Chemicals From Alkali Lakes

Production Of Sodium Sulphate Last Year Amounted To $1,571 Tons

The alkali lakes of the Prairie Provinces have begun to add materially to the mineral production of Western Canada with an increase in 1930 of well over 500 per cent. In the production of sodium sulphate. From the deposits of this material, in plentiful supply on the Prairies, only 5,018 tons were taken in 1929, but last year, according to preliminary figures of the Dominion Government, production rose to 31,571 tons.

Salt Content Not Uniform

First shipments of Canadian butter to England have been generally satisfactory, according to word received. The flavor, taste and color of the butter have met with approval, but the lack of uniformity in the salt content has been criticized. It has been suggested that a milder and more uniform salt content, not above two per cent., be utilized in the making of the butter.

"The economic recovery of the world depends upon it," says a manifesto of the German government, and the "it" means a new deal about reparations and war debts. This, unless it can be shown to be mere politics and eyewash, is a grave and important statement, and no responsible statesman, we believe, will attempt to show that it is mere politics. It borrows significance from the decree to which it imposes $400,000,000 of new taxation upon the German people. And it lies in between the lines of the official communique given out about that week-end party at Chequers Court, when the prime minister and the foreign secretary of Great Britain met their "opposite numbers" of Germany, Chancellor Brüning and Foreign Minister Curtius.

This new taxation is described as "one last effort." "Last efforts" in this world of human limitations turn out very often not to be anything like last efforts, and certainly there is no aid or comfort in the language of despair about this business. Also, it is probably extravagant to suggest that the present low condition of business and industry in the world is entirely referable to the vicious operations of reparations and war debts. But it is soberly true that the principal point of economic dislocation is international trade; that the symbols of the depression are international commodities, wheat, metals, cotton, sugar, rubber, coffee, oil; that the dead weight of reparations and war debts is a dragging burden upon the exchange and movements of those commodities. And it is true that the condition of Germany really does approach at last the place where the reparations scheme is likely to break down altogether.

Nothing can be done about this business—and there can be no realism in any discussion of it which refuses to meet the fact—without the consent and co-operation of the United States. The United States is the ultimate creditor of reparations and war debts. Germany is the ultimate debtor. The only way in which Germany can pay, if at all, is in the same currency in which all the war debts were originally contracted—in commodities. The United States insists that the debts must be paid. At the same time, the United States insists upon the maintenance of policies, domestic and foreign, which make it increasingly impossible to pay the debts at all. The high wall of tariff has kept out the commodities of the debtor nations is bound to keep out the remittances of payments on the debts.

That is the inevitable process, and that is the logic of the present situation of world depression, at least as much of it—and it is a tremendous part—depends upon international trade. Germany has been paying reparations mainly by new borrowings—the calamitous paradox which means that Germany has been paying reparations by not paying them. It is an impossible state of affairs—that is a state of affairs, that is to say, that is bound to crash. How much longer can it continue?—Vancouver Province.

Directors and officers of private companies would be permitted to audit the books of their companies under an amendment to the companies act approved in the banking and commerce committee of the House of Commons. The amendment also applies to public companies which do not offer shares, bonds or debentures to the public.

Shows Faith in Canada

Sum Invested in Her Industries Is Over Six Billion

The impressive fact that the sum invested in Canadian industries is more than $6,350,000,000 is mentioned by Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner to Great Britain, in a foreword to the "Canadian Resources Supplement" published by the Financial Times of London, England. Still more impressive, he says, is the fact that sums contributed from outside sources are held in proportion of 61 per cent. by the United States and 35 per cent. by Great Britain.

Detailing a few facts to indicate the "extraordinary resilience of Canadian industrial activities during the period of acute world wide depression," Mr. Ferguson records as another impressive fact that building contracts during the first ten months of 1930 totalled $400,000,000. He says, "this hardly looks like reticence or resignation to depression. Building contracts on this scale are as reliable an indication of Canada's prosperity as any that can be found."

St. Lawrence Route Is Popular

Enterprise and Confidence in the Development of Canada's Future

The growing popularity of the St. Lawrence route from America to Europe has received another fillip with the placing in commission of the "Empress of Britain," said by competent authorities to be the finest vessel afloat. On her first trip from England to Canada the "Empress of Britain" carried a very notable passenger list and marked another step forward in the popularization of the St. Lawrence route to Europe.

Although not the largest passenger vessel ever launched—the "Empress of Britain" has a gross register of 42,500 tons—the new vessel is said to present the latest developments in nautical architecture, designed to insure comfort, safety and speed. Among innovations are a full-sized tennis court, a squash racket court, long distance telephone in every first class apartment, and every room an outside room. Her speed will enable her to make the passage between Southampton and Quebec in about five days.

The St. Lawrence route has the advantage of furnishing an ocean journey to Europe with the first thousand miles consisting of placid water enclosed by magnificent scenery. The new vessel will reduce the oceanic period of the voyage to 31½ days. She is the property of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, and may therefore be fairly claimed as an evidence of Canadian enterprise and confidence in the development of Canada's future.

Amend Copyright Act

Bill Drafted To Conform With Rome Convention Of 1928

Parliament has given third reading to a bill amending the Copyright Act, approving the final three clauses in a short time. Nine clauses were passed in committee. The bill went on to the senate.

Piloting the bill through the House, Hon. C. H. Cahan, secretary of state, said he hoped a thorough revision of the copyright law might be undertaken but indicated it would require "a great deal of time."

The bill is drafted in order to bring the present copyright law into conformity with the Rome convention of 1928, and Canada is required to deposit this country's adherence to that convention by July 1. In general its purpose was to extend the provisions of the copyright so as to embrace radio broadcasting and cinematograph reproductions, those developments not being in existence when the original Berne convention was drafted.

As the bill operates, individuals who have not registered their works will not possess the right of suit in court in respect of such unregistered works. In the case of assignments, having been made, only such assignments as have been registered will vest in the assignee whatever court rights are established. Unregistered assignments will have no status before the courts.

Organizations to whom copyrighted works have been assigned, and who charge fees for the performance of such works will be subjected to government regulation if, after an enquiry by a commissioner under the Enquiries Act, it is shown that excessive fees are being charged or that the organizations are operating detrimentally to the public interest.

Oil Production In Alberta

April Showed Fifty Per Cent. Gain Over Same Month Last Year

Oil production in Alberta for the month of April was more than 50 per cent. ahead of the same month last year. According to figures given out by Hon. R. G. Reid, Minister of Lands and Mines, the four producing fields in the province gave a yield of 142,544 barrels, as against 92,404 barrels in April of 1930. The heaviest item in the month's production was 132,533 barrels of naphtha from the Turner Valley wells, this alone being an advance of nearly 50,000 barrels over the corresponding month last year. Turner Valley also produced 1,626 barrels of light crude oil, while light crude from Red Coulee was 6,809 barrels. In the heavy crude class, Wainwright contributed 1,306 barrels, and Ribstone 270 barrels.

"Thank God," said Simpson fervently in a language imported from the British Isles, "I am a one-hundred-per-cent. American."

Gandhi Prefers Humble Quarters in London

Chooses To Live In Garret Among the Poorer Class

Mahatma Gandhi, who will leave India about the middle of August to attend meetings of the federal structures committee in London, England, has decided that when he gets there he will live among the most humble mendicants of Kingsley Hall, London's east-end home for the poor.

While India's other delegates to the round table conference install themselves in the city's hotels or the castles of their friends, he will be in a garret among surroundings not unlike those familiar to the people who revere him so highly at home.

If the weather permits he will not even alter his habitual costume of white shawl and thin cotton loin cloth, but if it is cold he will wear a homespun coat and the conventional European trousers. When he appears before the King and Queen it will be in the Indian costume with shaven head and bare feet.

Despite the problems of state with which he is concerned, one of his major considerations at the moment is how he will obtain fresh goat's milk in London, England, and on the way there. Contrary to reports he cannot take his own flock of goats which are milked twice daily in his presence, and it is likely he will instruct Miss Slade, his British attendant and disciple, to take along a supply of condensed milk.

Larger Boats On Welland Canal

Boats up to 450 feet in length will be allowed to pass through the Welland Ship Canal, commencing this month, Chief Engineer Alex. Grant announced. Previously regular passage has been restricted to boats of the St. Lawrence size, 237 feet, any boats in excess of that have required a special pass. This new regulation will cover all classes of vessels. Mr. Grant announced, but the restriction to 18 feet draught will remain in force.

Angela's hand, resting on her steamer chair not far from Nick's, caught his suddenly in a frightened clasp. He turned toward her, startled, but she had already drawn it away, and was looking out to sea.

"Any of you been there?" persisted the Colonel cheerfully.

Nobody had.

"It's just a long neck of land stretching out into the sea," he went on affably. "Rocks, and berry bushes, and one wide, wonderful curving beach—at least, that's what it is before the summer people look it up. It's some colony now. Finest hotel in the state out on the point beyond the artists' studios. Never hear your name, Mrs. Halliday, without remembering something rather ghastly that happened there a year or two ago—the only summer I've missed being there in a long time. Some people named Halliday took a house there for the summer. Any relatives of yours?"

"No," said Angela, her voice queerly pleasant. "No; I never heard of the place."

"Quite a yarn," went on the Colonel. "These Hallidays (just a man and wife, I believe), were evidently a queerly assorted pair. He was a quiet chap—professional man of some kind, and crazy about his wife. Never looked at anybody else. She was different. Never happy without a man at her heels. Before the summer was over some called her a murderess, but—"

"It's getting awfully chilly," broke in Angela. "I think I'll go for a wrap."

She would have risen, but Amy Myers tossed a sweater into her lap. "Take that, I'm melted; the air's so breathless. Do go on, Colonel Nowell; this bids fair to be exciting."

The Colonel obeyed eagerly.

"They hired the Burgess place, a fine big house out by the cliffs. The cottage next to it was taken by a man named Ashley—an artist from somewhere in New York state. He had a wife and baby. Everyone liked them; nice, homey sort of people, I understand. Though Ashley himself was—well, his views were a trifle too radical to suit some of the regular population of the Neck; though I doubt if they thought much about it till after the tragedy."

The Colonel leisurely lit a cigar, enjoying the sense of keeping his audience in suspense. Angela stirred again, as if she would arise, then sank back in resignation as he continued, her hands tensely clutching the arms of her steamer chair.

"Well, this Mrs. Halliday was a sort of vampire. She tried her charms on the Rector of St. Anne's, but they didn't work, so she began on Ashley, and before she was through she finished him—literally. The servants said afterward that they heard her husband remonstrating; but she had a high temper, and I guess he couldn't do anything with her. Anyhow, Ashley went off in a gasoline launch with her one day, and didn't get back till morning. When he landed and went to his own cottage (probably scared blue, too, trying to think what he'd say to wife), he well, he found that he didn't have to say anything. She'd taken carbohic acid an hour before."

"How horrible!" exclaimed Nick, wholly unconscious of the rigidity of the form beside him.

"But that's not all." The Colonel was plainly relishing the effect of his lurid tale. "Mrs. Ashley was in the bathroom, alone, or so the neighbors gathered, when the baby woke and yelled so long that someone went in to investigate. Ashley had evidently turned her over to see if she were gone; and then he'd reached for his razor and slashed his throat."

Angela had risen. Even in the moonlight her face looked pallid.

"That's not a pretty story, Colonel Nowell," she said unsteadily. "It's given me the creeps." She laughed a forced little laugh that rang out eerily on the still night. "Well, I think I'll turn in now. Night, everybody. Hope there's some air to breathe tomorrow."

She moved toward the door, staggering, though the sea was like a mill pond. Nick sprang to her side, putting an arm about her until she reached the stairs.

"All right," he questioned. "That was a beastly yarn to spin a night like this. Sure you're all right?"

But Angela did not speak, she fumbled blindly for the bannister. When he came back the Myers were preparing to go below; but Colonel Nowell was at the rail, and motioned Nick to join him.

"Hope my story didn't upset the little lady too much. Say! I wonder if those Hallidays weren't some relation after all! Uncommon name—Halliday; but she said she'd never heard of Painter's Neck."

"I think it was just Mrs. Halliday's extreme sensitiveness," Nick answered. "She seemed nervous, I noticed, when you began to talk. What became of those people, Colonel Nowell?"

The Colonel shrugged. Nick had noted this growing habit, and wondered if the little man had caught it from Angela.

"You mean the Hallidays?" They left the Neck at once, naturally. She was in a sanitarium for a time—used up nervously. Gosh! do you wonder? They never went back to the Neck, and that's all I know, though, come to think of it, someone told me last summer that Halliday had provided for the child—the Ashley child—looked there a big cloud gathering. Wonder if our good weather's over."

In their cabin below, the Myers had undressed in silence. It was as Mrs. dutifully stooped for his good-night kiss, that he said, jerking a thumb in the direction of Angela's statement: "Well what do you make of that?"

His wife smiled.

"I think our friend isn't always a successful actress; but let's not talk about it. These partitions are so thin, Gosh!"

And behind that thin partition lay Angela, hot hands pressed against her eyes as if to shut out some horrid picture.

She was thinking: "They said carbohic had spilled onto her face. . . . She was burned horribly. . . . What else could the man do then? . . . She was a fool anyway. . . . Why didn't she give him time to explain? . . . I didn't hurt him! . . . My God! . . . I won't they ever let me forget?"

As she turned dry-eyed to the wall she was conscious of an inexplicable longing—an aching want for the steady touch of her husband's hand.

CHAPTER XXI.

Two hours later the moon was obscured by clouds, and the face of the deep seemed vaguely restless. After the Colonel left him, Nick sat for a long time on deck, enchanted with the night—the soft and fragrant breeze—the thought that he, the Nicholas Hastings of Bakerville, U.S.A., who had seen the wonder and beauty of these tropic isles. Wooded, coral-tipped bits of fairyland, they seemed to him. All his life he would be grateful for these weeks, and grateful to Angela, who had made them possible.

He frowned as his thoughts turned to Angela. She was undoubtedly upset by the Colonel's story—curiously so. Putting two and two together one might think—Still, it was a horrible thought. He hoped none of the others had grasped it. Of course Colonel Nowell had never met James Halliday. He couldn't know how near the story fitted. And Angela did enjoy having a man at her heels! Nick smiled into the clouds. Why the evening enjoyed an old married man like him—self! It was perfectly evident, and with Mrs. Myers. Perhaps she was one of those women who didn't care for her own sex. That might account for Gay's strange aversion to her.

Gay! Why, it was a relief just to think about her! No wonder she and Angela didn't hit it off. They were so different. Gay could talk to the men—could keep them interested (hadn't he seen Halliday himself look at her as if he thought her a little piece of all-right?), but she didn't look at them the way Angela did. Gosh! he was glad she didn't. Not that Angela meant anything by it either. They were just—well—different, that was all.

He arose, walking a bit restlessly up and down; glancing at the clouds that were hiding the familiar stars; wondering why Angela had grasped his hand so suddenly at the mention of Painter's Neck. Yet she said that she had never heard of the place.

"I'd give a penny to know," he mused quietly; then broke off with an impatient "No! I wouldn't, either! Thunder! where are my thoughts taking me? Why, if it were Angela, if she'd been even the indirect cause of that ghastly happening, she wouldn't look at another man as long as she lived! No decent woman would. It must have been nerves, and—sympathy, that upset her, so. Gee! I hope the others didn't notice. The Colonel caught on all right, but he's a gentleman. He'll keep his mouth shut."

Are Your Tires Safe?

When Worn, Added Strain In Summer Is Dangerous

Warm weather is here, and with it the added strain on worn automobile tires. Any motorist knows the danger of a blowout. He also knows that good tires are the best insurance against it.

A tire inflated to 35 pounds pressure and run for one hour steadily in summer will show an increased air pressure of 40 per cent. Hammer that already strained tire on the pavement with the tons of striking force which high speed engenders, and you soon see the need for caution against worn casings.

The prices are less than what they were five years ago, yet the quality has been improved. It is estimated that tires give 15 times more service today than they did in 1914, for the same money.

You may not feel you can afford new tires. But if there's any danger about their safety, remember that worn tires are immensely cheaper than lives, or even than the car itself which they endanger.

Motorizing season is here. Are your tires safe?

New Remedy For Burns

Tan Acid Powder Successfully Used In Toronto Hospital

A new remedy for the treatment of burns has been discovered at Toronto. Physicians at the hospital for sick children have formulated the new treatment which they have named tan acid.

News of the discovery leaked out at the hospital when George Sinclair, chief of the Toronto fire department, was summoned to the institution to see the results of the application of several young patients who had suffered nasty burns. Tan acid, which is a powder solution, was used successfully on a large number of children who were burned during the celebration of Queen Victoria's birthday on the 24th of May.

Fire department officials have been granted permission to carry the remedy on their fighting apparatus.

People Are Suffering From "Mass Pessimism"

Present Economic Condition Apply Described By Ambassador Davies

Ambassador Davies, returning to the United States for a short vacation from his duties at the Court of St. James's, brings with him a phrase that aptly describes the present economic situation. We are suffering, he says, from "mass pessimism."

Some say too much has been made of the psychological side of depression. Still, it seems obvious that there is a morale in economics as well as in war. Once "mass pessimism" seizes an army it is no longer a useful fighting machine. Depression came about when "mass pessimism" seized the United States and other countries and reduced the whole world to an ineffective economic machine.

There are causes, of course, behind this "mass pessimism." When we get rid of the pessimism we shall doubtless be able to see the causes and remove them.

It seems to be about the meaning of the phrase to which Ambassador Davies had given currency when it is considered in connection with his remark that a change to optimism is about due, and when the change comes it will usher in better business conditions. Recovery, of course, will take time, but it will be made steady as soon as we get the malaria of pessimism out of our economic bones. —Buffalo Courier-Express.

Twelve Years Since

First Ocean Flight

Alcock and Brown Made Trip In Sixteen Hours

It was 12 years ago June 15th that the world watched for reports of two airmen far out over the Atlantic on the first trans-Atlantic flight. They were across the Atlantic ocean. They were Sir William Alcock, who had served in the Great War, and Lieutenant Arthur Whitten Brown, later knighted.

The two British flyers made the first trans-Atlantic flight from St. John's, Newfoundland, to Cliffton, Ireland, in 16 hours and 12 minutes. The aeroplane used was a Vickers' machine, powered with two Rolls-Royce motors of 350 horsepower.

The flight of Col. Charles Lindbergh was made May 10, 1927, or almost eight years after the flight of Alcock and Brown.

Had To Have Headgear

Jewish Lawyer Wore Woman's Hat While Talking Oath

This harmless craze that causes young men to go blithely about bareheaded resulted in an amusing scene in the court clerk's office at Peterboro, Ont. Hattie, a young Jewish student lawyer found it necessary to swear out an affidavit of search. Jews must wear some head covering when taking an oath.

The first person to pass wearing a hat was a girl. Gracey, a young lady removed her wide-brimmed hat. Red with embarrassment, but loyal to Hebrew tradition, the young man arrayed in the flimsy sunshade, solemnly took the oath.

The smallest fly that bites human beings is the punkie, which can literally pass through the eye of an ordinary needle.

One of the great trials of life is that when it's fine for gardening it's also fine for golf.

CORNS LIFT OFF

Pain Stops!

An amazing remedy—acts in a few seconds and causes no pain. The corn shrivels up and loosens. Another application or two and the corn drops out. Wonderfully easy to use. That is just how Putnam's Corn Extractor works. You can buy Putnam's Corn Extractor from any drugist for 35c.

Turner Valley Oil

Deliveries of Turner Valley naphtha and crude during May totaled 118,314 barrels, as compared with 114,217 barrels in April. Sales to farmers at the wells have been continuing in fairly large volume, so that the deliveries do not represent the total production. Farmers purchase around 500 barrels daily from the various companies.

Eating When Tired Bad For Digestion

Body Needs Chance To Recuperate and Rest Is Better Than Food

When you are tired don't eat. Rest in times of fatigue, will do more for the digestion than something thrown into the stomach, says Hygeia, the health journal.

Many people develop a habit of eating or drinking to relieve fatigue or merely to pass away the time. When a person is tired the body needs a chance to recuperate. It is not then advisable to take in quantities of food or to overstimulate the body with drinks and drugs.

Human beings need food to develop energy for daily work. The antidote to desire for food is the feeling of satisfaction. To go on eating merely because food is set before one, after satisfaction has been reached, is to overtax the system. Because people are more moderate now in their eating and drinking they are living longer than their forefathers who gorged themselves on food in the belief that the more they ate the stronger they would become, and who boasted of eating "three-bottle men."

Aviators Have Narrow Escape

Almost Sucked Into Crater Of Volcano In Alaska

Man, for the first time, has flown over the crater of Aniakchak volcano on the south shore of Alaska Peninsula, but the suction of cold air towards the hot crater, 21 miles in circumference, pulled the aeroplane toward the pit, and only a sudden dive away from the gaseous mouth saved the ship from plunging into the hole.

A plane, piloted by Harry Blunt, with Al Mosen, mechanic, and carrying Father Bernard J. Hubbard, the "Glacier priest," after several days' waiting for good weather, soared over the world's largest crater taking off from Chignik Bay.

Sailing over some crags, several huge eagles attacked the plane. Father Hubbard reported, sneaking from behind on a short turn and diving in. The propeller was turned them over like chips of the ocean, but, screaming, they came back for more until out-distanced.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaels

PRAYER FOR THE JOURNEY

Oh, God of small things as of great, Of atom as of star,

Let me not fear or hesitate Before the things that are!

Let me unflinchingly go On my way with unshak'd trust, Since I am blest in that I know The plan is wholly just.

Oh, God of worlds unguessed, remote, And farthest depths of space, Yield me no terror, give me hope, The spider's silver lace,

And heed the tiny sparrow's fall, Let me not serenade fear, Life's way, and go content in all The paths where I am led.

Oh, God of small things as of great, Of atom as of sun,

Let me not doubt or hesitate Till all my course is run.

Stained Glass Windows In Battleship Chapel

Dedication Ceremony Performed On Cruiser "Republie" Was Unique

The unique ceremony of dedicating a stained glass window on board a battleship was performed at Sheerness by the chaplain of the fleet, Archdeacon Walter K. Knight-Adkin, on the battle cruiser "Republie." "Republie" is the first ship in the Royal Navy to have her chapel adorned in this way, and the window fits into an ordinary porthole in the ship. Before the ceremony the chaplain addressed the officers and men on the quarter-deck. The designer is Archibald Nicholson, who represents St. Nicholas blessing two sailors.

Before Her Baby Came

"I have used several bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and find it helps me wonderfully, especially before childbirth. I have five lovely children and my last baby came I had a miserable pain in my right side so I bought another bottle of the Compound and I feel fine now. I work outside during the fruit season in addition to my housework." —Mrs. Charles Slingerland, R.R. #4, St. Catharines, Ontario.
